

The J. Leroy Cook Memorial Scholarship Program

Scholarship Selection Committee

We would like to introduce the 2010 J. Leroy Cook Memorial Scholarship Selection Committee members. The Committee members will review all scholarship applications and be responsible for determining the award recipients. Case Farms personnel will not see or review applications, and will not be involved in the selection process.

Pamela C. Holthouser

A lifetime native of North Carolina, Mrs. Pam Holthouser is an experienced and recently retired educator. She attended the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and taught mathematics in North Carolina for over thirty years. In addition to being the Math Department Head, she was the senior activities coordinator at Mooresville High School. Mrs. Holthouser is also very involved in church and community organizations.

Richard G. Neville

Mr. Richard Neville, a resident of Mooresville, North Carolina, is a retired engineer and physicist. After completing studies at Purdue University and Syracuse University, Mr. Neville's career spanned more than forty years, including service in the United States Navy and research and development work for IBM. As an active member of his community, Mr. Neville currently serves on the Board of Directors for the Lake Norman Lions Club and is the organization's Scholarship Committee Chairman.

Sue V. Wilson

After graduating from Gardner Webb and Appalachian State University, Ms. Wilson spent over 30 years as a math educator. She is retired from teaching and currently lives in Mooresville, North Carolina, but continues to be involved with various community organizations. Her experience includes involvement with the local Chamber of Commerce, church and various education associations.
