Case Farms Goldsboro Facility Reaches One Million Hours Without a Lost-Time Accident

Facility achieves safety milestone for the first time this year

Troutman, N.C. (April 23, 2025) – Case Farms, a local poultry farming and processing group, achieved a new safety milestone on April 14th after their Goldsboro processing facility reached one million man hours without experiencing an Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) recordable lost-time accident (LTA).

This significant milestone reflects the company's steadfast commitment to workplace safety and the collective efforts of more than 1,300 dedicated employees at the Goldsboro complex. This is the second time in the last year the Goldsboro complex has hit this achievement.

"We are incredibly proud of our team in Goldsboro for reaching this milestone," said Jared Birchum, Complex Safety Manager. "It takes a true team effort, every single day, to keep safety at the forefront. This accomplishment reflects our commitment to each other, our families, and our community."

The achievement underscores Case Farms' ongoing investment in safety training, hazard mitigation, and employee engagement initiatives designed to foster a culture where safety is a shared value.

"This milestone is more than just a number—it represents a culture of accountability, focus, and care," said Tyler Parlier, Regional Safety Manager. "Our team works with purpose and vigilance, and that shows in this outstanding result."

Kevin Taylor, Vice President and General Manager, added, "This achievement is a reflection of our employees' dedication and Case Farms' commitment to ensuring that everyone goes home safely. We're proud of the Goldsboro team for setting the bar high and leading by example."
